ABOUT VORARLBERG

Vorarlberg is well liked. The population is growing almost twice as fast as in Austria as a whole. It's also home to the youngest citizens in the entire country. The share of residents under the age of 20 is highest in Vorarlberg compared to the Austrian average.

After Vienna, the Vorarlberg Rhine Valley is the most densely populated region in Austria.

The regional centers in Vorarlberg create an urban area that merges almost seamlessly into the Swiss Rhine Valley and Germany.

A variety of green and recreational areas are in the immediate vicinity and can be reached quickly.

Vorarlberg has a prime standard of living and a unique quality of life. The basis for the location's attractiveness is, among other things, its high economic strength that ranks Vorarlberg next to highly competitive industrial regions (such as Upper Bavaria and Eastern Switzerland) in an international comparison.
